He just keeps rollin' along

There is something lost and lonely about an abandoned truck that gradually rusts and sinks away into the rising weeds and grasses. But it seems even more isolated from activity when the rising river breaks grassblade from grassblade and trees from the ground and each other and ultimately creates an island from a lost truck. Thousands of acres flooded

Castor breaks levee

Several thousand acres of farmland are under water in Stoddard County as a break in a floodwall along the Castor River continues to pour water into fields. The break occurred Monday night about eight miles north of Essex, the same area of the river that broke last November.

Several area streams and ditches continue to rise, as does the Mississippi River. The National Weather Service station at Cairo predicts that floodwaters throughout most of Missouri and Southern Illinois will begin receding by the weekend.

Powell's Ferry at Caruthersville has been closed since Sunday because of the high water. Troop E headquarters of the highway patrol also reports that Belmont Ferry on Highway 8 near Dorena is closed.

The Tiptonville ferry is running during daytime hours only. The Cottonwood Point ferry is reported to be in full operation 24 hours a day.

The highway patrol reports that it has had no information on the opening of Highway 142 in Ripley County, which has been closed due to flood waters.

The Mississippi River at New Madrid is expected to crest at 37.5 feet on Sunday. Today's reading was 35.9 feet, which was a rise of one foot since Wednesday. Flood stage is 34 feet.

At Cape Girardeau, the river stage today was estimated at 38.1 feet, a rise of .5 feet from Wednesday. It is expected to crest at 39 feet on Sunday, seven feet above the flood stage of 32 feet.

The Caruthersvile reading today was 33.9 feet, which is a rise of 1.1 feet since Wednesday. The river there is expected to crest at 36.3 Monday, 4.3 feet above the flood stage of 32 feet.

At Cairo, the crest is expected Saturday at 48 feet and will remain steady through Sunday. The reading today was up .7 from Wednesday at 47.2 feet. Flood stage is 40 feet.

At Golconda, the reading was 32.6 feet today, a rise of .1 foot. After Friday, the river is expected to fall again.

At Chester, the reading today was 34.4, up .8 foot from Wednesday. No forecast was available.

The Meramec River, from Pacific in Franklin County to Valley Park in St. Louis County, is expected to crest today. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said this is only the third time in 112 years that March flooding has occurred along this river.

Boat cook drowns

NEW MADRID — A 61-year- old towboat cook identified as Alvin L. Cashmon of Chalmette, La., apparently committed suicide Wednesday by jumping off the Dixie Star towboat into the Mississippi River about 11 a.m. At the time, the towboat was eight miles north of New Madrid and about one- third mile offshore on the Missouri side of the river.

New Madrid County Coroner Gene Clayton and the sheriff's department were notified about 1 p.m. of the drowning by the towboat captain Ted Peaden of Bay Minette, Ala.

According to Clayton, Peaden said he had gone to the galley about 11 a.m. to eat lunch and noticed Cashmon staring at a radio speaker on the wall. After a brief conversation with the cook about what food he had prepared for lunch, Peaden said Cashmon continued staring at the speaker.

A short time later Peaden said he saw Cashmon leave the galley and go onto the deck. A few minutes later he heard deckhands shout that a man was overboard.

Deckhands Jerry Monohen and James Walker told the captain they saw Cashmon jump into the river, but weren't close enough to stop him. A life ring was immediately thrown out to the man, and the towboat pilot was notified to stop and reverse.

The pilot reported he observed the man in the water continuously through field glasses and that Cashmon made no effort to get to the life ring which was about 50 feet behind him. He also said Cashmon did not appear to try to help himself in any way, or struggle to keep from going under the water.

While efforts were being made to launch a skiff, the pilot said Cashmon submerged three times, and then he did not see him again.

Clayton said no reason could be given for the man's actions. He reportedly had good relations with the crew and had worked on the towboat for three years.

It was reported Cashmon was on medication, but no one had information concerning the type or for what ailment. Cashmon had come aboard the boat at 4 p.m. Monday in Memphis, Tenn. The boat is owned by Dixie Carriers Inc. of Harvey, La., and had a cargo of petroleum.

Cashmon is described as being 6 feet 3 inches tall, weighing 160 pounds and having grey hair. He was wearing a white tee- shirt, grey work pants and suede shoes.

Clayton requested persons in small boats on the river downstream to be watching for a body and, if sighted, to notify him or the New Madrid County sheriff's department.

Slander suit is moved to MissCo

BENTON — A $31,950 damage suit, in which Garnet H. White has charged Roy W. Ragains with slander, has been transferred to Mississippi County Circuit Court and Judge William L. Ragland of Caruthersville was appointed special judge to hear the case after the disqualification of Judge Marshall Craig.

Mrs. White, a former elementary school teacher at Scott County R-5 School District in Morley, charged Ragains, superintendent of the district, with slander, saying he caused her teaching contract not to be renewed and prevented her from obtaining another teaching position. She is seeking $6,950 for actual damages and $25,000 for punitive damages.

On March 16, 1971, Ragains allegedly told Mrs. White he had received complaints from parents that she was too nervous to be with children and unsatisfactory as a teacher and asked her to resign. After she refused to do so, another meeting was held on March 24, 1971, and Ragains told Mrs. White if she did not submit her resignation she would not be able to teach in other schools within 500 miles of Cape Girardeau. Again Mrs. White refused to resign.

On April 8, 1971, during a school board meeting at Morley, Ragains made the statement that he was informed by a doctor that Mrs. White was very neurotic, nervous and emotional person and he would not want a child of his going to school under her.

In other Circuit Court cases, trial was set April 3 for Marvin Hellman on charges of possessing marijuana and LSD and Dorothy Evelyn Shy was awarded a divorce from Carl E. Shy. Mrs. Shy was awarded $250 for attorney's fee.

HOW TO SAVE MONEY

The impossibility of any one person keeping track of our legislative process in Washington is illustrated by the history of our new, ninety-third Congress, in the first 28 days of proceedings. In that brief time -- from the first of the year to the end of February -- members of the House and Senate had introduced over 7,000 measures; around 6,000 bills, 365 joint revolutions, 147 concurrent resolutions and 333 simple resolutions.

Most, but not all, of these legislative proposals called for increased expenditures by existing government bodies or the creation of new, additional government bureaus.

In considering these matters, the Senate, although it has fewer members, proved to be much longer winded then the House. That august body filled more then 3,700 pages in the Congressional Record, as against less than 1,300 pages for the House. Since the public printer manages to squeeze in up to 1,500 words on each page of the Record, our calculations indicate that something between seven and eight million words were printed before the first of March.

We don't know of anyone who has calculated how much it would cost the taxpayers if all proposed measures were to pass. Since the estimated cost of the bills are almost always much less than the actual amounts, we don't even dare guess what it would be.

We can count ourselves lucky that in these first two months of the 93rd Congress, only 162 of the proposed measures were passed into law. But there is no telling what our elected Representatives will do the rest of this year.

It well behooves the concerned taxpayer to either drop a note, make a phone call, or pay a visit to one of his Representatives. After all, the dollars they save will be your own!

If you received a package shipped across country and find the merchandise inside damaged, you expect the carrier to pay for the loss. Right?

But the National Federation of Independent Business reports that many businessmen are complaining that carriers are balking at settlement of loss and damage claims, and settlements are often arbitrary or unsatisfactory. Many business owners say the incidence of damaged or lost shipments has increased sharply in recent years. The result: millions of dollars of disputed claims.

Because of growing complaints, Sen. Alan Bible of Nevada, chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee, proposes legislation providing a claim's adjucation procedure within the Interstate Commerce Commission. Commerce Commission.

In addition, increasing theft and hijacking of cargo has aggravated the problem for both carrier and customer. The Small Business Committee estimates such crime at $1.5 billion a year.

A POLITICAL DIFFERENCE

A principal difference between the two political parties is openness.

Democrats generally are, Republicans generally aren't, and so reporters know and write more about the Democrats. Here in Iowa, for example, the Democratic State Central Committee meetings are open, if you want to go sleep through them; the Repbulican State Control Committee meetings are not open.

Also, Iowa Democrats usually invite reporters to the small big fund-risers; Republicans usually pretend they don't have such things.

So the Republicans had Missouri Gov. Chrisopher Bond here last week, but unless you caught his cheer-leading at their Lincoln Day dinner, you didn't get a chance at him because he was avialable for only one question.

Bond's prepared speech text praised Mr. Nixon's ending the war and so Register reporter Stephen Johnson had a question: Why do you think Mr. Nixon was unable to end the war earlier?

Bond answered by walking away without a word, and Ralph Zarnow's Orchestra played the "Missouri Waltz" as he walked to the head table.

Mainly because the waltz was Harry Truman's theme, one old reporter thought it would have been more fitting had the band played that popular tune of 20 or so years ago that had words something to the effect:

CRACKDOWN ON PORN

The tide of pornographic filth continues to invade American communities, causing concern and indignation on the part of thoughtful, decent citizens.

Recently, a reader wrote to me saying: "Sometime I would hope that you might ponder the possibility of a column in the shape of a prognosis as to what the American public may eventually do about the incursion of hard core pornography into our daily lives. First there were the 'adult' book stores, followed by the peep shows, the live sex, the movie houses and today the legitimate theatres showing unexpurgated sex as portrayed by well-known actors and actresses. TV will be next."

Well, I understand that a major new obscenity decision may be forthcoming from the U.S. Supreme Court in a case involving Andy Warhol's "Blue Movie." At the moment, prosecutors are hindered by rulings of the Warren Court. Former Chief Justice Earl Warren, an apostle of permissiveness, declared that "neither the courts nor legislatures have been able to evolve a truly satisfactory definition of obscenity." The Warren Court placed the burden on the prosecution of showing that pornographic material is "utterly without redeeming social value." Pornography has flooded the country since the landmark Roth case in 1957. The public can only hope that the largely reconstituted Supreme Court will establish the right of communities to control the smut peddlers.

In the meantime, the Nixon administration is doing what it can to combat the purveyors of filth. In recent months, FBI agents have seized hardcore pornographic films at theaters in the District of Columbia. The films were nabbed under a federal statute prohibiting interstate transportation of obscene material. The legal actions following these seizures are a maze of complexities. But the vigorous action by the U.S. Attorney's office seems to have had at least a limited deterrent effect on the operators of pornographic film houses in the nation's capital.

Congress, however, has virtually abdicated its responsibility to inquire into a great social evil. Historically, the spread of pornography has been a symptom of a civilization's weakening and breakdown. Mass distribution of printed and filmed filth is a threat to the moral fiber of America and should be thoroughly investigated by Congress. At the moment, infuential leaders in both houses are complaining that Congress is being by- passed and neglected. Yet Congress does nothing to probe into the operations of the pornography producing and distributing apparatus.

The media giants, such as THE NEW YORK TIMES, WASHINGTON POST and CBS, seem equally uniterested in the pornography problem, except insofar as it affects small areas such as New York City's Times Square. But the media giants have the investigative reports to dig out the facts about the pornography- producing apparatus. It would be fascinating to know why THE TIMES and the POST, for example, don't deploy teams of reporters to track down the links among pornography operators. Press investigation of the smut peddlers is one of the best ways to reverse the flow of filth.

The media giants display the greatest resourcefulness in digging into the backgrounds of federal appointees they don't like. But what about publicizing the names of the people who produce the pornography?

Who are the magnates in this filthy trade? Where do they get their operating funds? Where do they bank and invest their huge profits? Where do they live and who are their associates? Who owns the properties in which pornographic films are shown? How are the films and printed materials transported from state to state? Finally, what is the character and extent of organized crime involvement in the production, distribution and showing of pornography?

These are important questions which can and should be answered by determined news-gathering organizations.

Several years ago, a New York State commission reported that organized crime was deeply involved in the smut traffic. But virtually nothing has been done to follow up on that report. Like dope, pornography has a debasing effect on society. Every agency of government should use its powers to the utmost to curb the activities of the degenerates involed in the smut traffic.

Never before in American history has it been more important for voters to understand our economy than right now. With incomes bigger but dollars buying less, the problem of inflation makes the need for fiscal responsiblity vital.

Fiscal considerations were basic to the founding of this nation. "No taxation without representation" was no mere slogan. It was recognition that what the government spends and how it finances itself are of prime importance.

At this point in history, about one-third of all we produce goes to the government — and the government demands still more. In an election year, each party tries to put forth as many programs as possible that will appeal to the well-being of one group or another.

Many of the programs are valid considered separately, but extremely expensive when considered collectively. As individuals and taxpayers, we must not be influenced by golden rhetoric or great promises of new luxuries we cannot afford.

Many people and clubs have formed study groups to learn more about the issues and projects now under consideration by Congress. Others have chosen to research older programs to find out if they are really necessary or can be combined with similar programs for administrative savings.

Some time ago Rep. George Mahon (D.-Tex.) Chairman, Appropriations Committee, House of Representatives, said, "Control of public spending rests with the people who create public sentiment and elect officials of government ... Congress is not going to practice restraint unless the message comes through loud and clear from the people ..."

It's up to us to speak up!

If you walk into the Mayo Hotel in Tulsa, you'll find all the clocks are five minutes fast. There's a reason for it. THE CONSEQUENCES OF MARXISM IN CHILE

Since Marxist Salvador Allende was "democratically" elected President of Chile, by a minority of the voters, the situation in that country has rapidly deteriorated. Allende's communist- leaning regime has brought much suffering to the Chilean people.

Santiago, Chile's capital, was once one of South America's most beautiful cities. Now observers report that the streets are dirty and the buildings in disrepair. Businesses are collapsing because Allende's government forces wage increases while prohibiting price increases. He has seized properties belonging to U.S. and other non-Chileans, thus forcing the withdrawal of foreign investment capital. Strikes are frequent.

Even though a Marxist is in power, Red guerillas have not slackened their attacks. They bomb light plants, power lines, railroads and reservoirs, and engage in political kidnappings of their opponents.

The secret police are everywhere. Trained in Castro's Cuba, they have instilled fear in the minds of the people, who know that they can be arrested at any time and for any reason. The head of the secret police, General Carlos Prats, has recently been made the No. 2 man in the government, showing the importance Allende attaches to this organization.

Freedom of the press is now nonexistent. Allende obviously plans to build a communist state in Chile similar to the USSR or Cuba. The Chilean people, however, have not yet lost their will to be free; there are encouraging reports of resistance to Allende's dictatorship. People of the U.S. should let it be known that we support freedom for the Chilean people HLH

Big Stick Battle:
Massive Wage Bargaining Begins as Nixon Watches for Challenges to Phase 3

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON-- "In the summertime it will be swim suits, shorts and raincoats," said ladies' garment workers chief Lou Stulberg, fielding the question as deftly as he handled fast ones during his semi- pro baseball shortstop days. "We've settled bras and underwear and embroidery. But we've got 225,000 people coming up."

He wasn't talking of styles. He was discussing what I dub the garment business's sixth season-- collective bargaining.

This year the sixth season comes early. In fact, it's here. Beware the Ides of March. For, on the march, right now, are leaders of several million workers. 'Tis the final struggle-- until next time. But now in many a closed room and secret rendezvous, the men who lead labor and the men from industry's executive suites confront each other.

For the moment, leading all the rest is the relatively little-known-- but not for long--- ex-Pacific beach- hitting Marine, Peter Bommarito, leader of the United Rubber Workers. Shortly after noontime March 12 in four Ohio cities, his lieutenants sat across from Rubber's Big Four--- Goodyear, Goodrich, Uniroyal and Firestone.

For the first time these unionists were leading all the rest into the battle of the green felt tables. Already, at off- the-record dinners and in hotel suites, leaders of the Teamsters, electrical equipment workers, auto workers, railroad employes and "ag- imp" (agricultural implements) craftsmen and hourly rated men and woman had been confidentially discussing the coming industrial battles.

And few have more at stake across those green felt and room service tables than President Nixon, George Shultz and company, meaning Harvard's Prof. John Dunlop who now is playing in the biggest league of his sensationally erudite life.

So, as they used to say in the newsreels, the eyes and ears of our world are on Pete Bommariot of Mogadore, Ohio, Akron's little suburb. What will "Pete get?"

What will he do to the "guidelines" which George Meany, Bommarito's latter-day mentor and ally, says he just doesn't like? There are 80,000 rubber workers involved in these discussions. The thrust is for more wages, job security and better pensions. What of the 5.5 per cent wage hike standard?

"We will be negotiating for a hunk of pie as everybody does," Bommarito told me. "The money will go for job security, pensions, early retirement plans-- 25 years and out and a monthly supplement of $250."

Then came some quick figures which seemed to total somewhere between 8 and 10 percent annual wage increases.

But what of the now-famed stick, the one in the closet?

"The administration will hold the sword of Damocles over us and surely he (the President) has a stick in the closet. We will find out what we have in our closet. Whatever we do we will try to do it without a confrontation. We hope and we will try. But if it takes confrontation, we will put forth the reasons for it."

Ex- Marine Bommarito was saying he'd strike if he had to against the big stick if it didn't soften into flexibility.

As he talked, there was movement on other fronts. General Electric prepared for the long green- felt sessions March 22 in New York with the ever- ebullient, still youngish, still avowedly Social Democratic Paul Jennings, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers--- and 13 other "coordinated" labor organizations. These range from Meany's plumbers to Frank Fitzsimmons' Teamsters.

Fitz was crisscrossing the nation, setting up screening and policy committees, polling his own members in preparation for the negotiations with the Trucking Employers, Inc.--- which speaks for some 1,800 hauling companies employing 425,000 drivers. The famed National Master Freight Agreement doesn't expire until June 30. But the independent Chicago truck drivers pact is up March 31, as is the agreement of pile-driving Louis Peick (a one- man powerhouse), president of Teamsters Local 705.

And then there is the now-solvent United Auto Workers (UAW), independent. They've gone through their skilled crafts and hourly rated conferences in New Orleans and Atlanta.

Now UAW president Leonard Woodcock and his high command are calling a special national collective bargaining policy convention for Detroit, March 22. There the rank- and- filers will roar it up. They have the most imaginative built- in demand-making mechanism on the labor front.

But there won't be much talk about the newest dillettante gadgetry-- job entichment, worker alienation, etc. The talk mostly will be of shorter hourse, longer holidays, guaranteed income, secure pensions and still earlier retirement. Of course, more money.

Big mystery. Whom will the 1.6 million- member union threaten first? Ford or Chyrsler? During the last (1970) strike, the GM walkout cost the union over $160 million. And it had to hock its national Detroit headquarters. Now on April 2, secretary treasurer-- second- in-command-- Emil Mazey, a veteran militant, will deliver a $25 million check over to the Teamsters and retake actual ownership of the big Solidarity House headquarters. And there will be some $55 million in the strike fund by September. Not the old $150 million.

That's petty cash and it might sober the militants. But who knows? After this comes the bargaining in the Big Four agricultural implement manufacturers. So on the UAW front the pay and fringes of about a million workers are on the table beginning mid-September.

So the White House is chary of the Ides of March. From now on it's all chain reaction stuff, opening of closet doors and banging of big sticks.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Europe Bitter and Angry Over Dollar Crisis: CIA

WASHINGTON— President Nixon's failure to intervene directly to check the international monetary crisis last week has caused bitterness and anger in the chanceries of Western Europe.

The secret diplomatic dispatches and intelligence reports from Europe indicate the feelings against the United States haven't run so high since the end of World War II. The President's handling of the monetary mess, in the opinion of most European leaders, threatens to plunge the world into a disastrous trade war. The result, they fear, could be a world depression.

Many blame the United States, according to the Central Intelligence Agency, for triggering the greatest international monetary crisis since the 1930s. The CIA reports, for example, that West German Chancellor Willy Brandt during a secret session with his ministers exploded: "The Americans must be taking leave of their senses!"

The cause of the crisis was a sudden flood of dollars into the exchange market. This forced European countries, particularly West Germany, to buy up dollars in order to keep their own currency stable. Twice now, these governments have been caught with their vaults full of dollars when President Nixon has devalued the dollar, thus sticking them with huge losses.

The Problem

The problem, somewhat oversimplified, is this: The dollar has been the backbone of the world monetary system for the past quarter century. Western Europe has depended upon the United States to bolster the dollar. But Washington took no firm action to halt the recent run on the dollar. The President's economic czar, Treasury Secretary George Shultz, came to a Paris monetary conference without instructions. He merely listened, with seeming detachment.

Brandt thought his attitude was senseless, but France's President Georges Pompidou considered it suspicious. The CIA reported that Pompidou, in private, was muttering darkly about U.S. economic imperialism.

As Pompidou sees it, according to the CIA, the United States is happy to dump its dollars on allied governments. The chief beneficiaries, Pompidou believes, are the great American corporations.

He suspects they have been selling dollars for European currencies, which have become more valuable as the dollar has weakened. Now he expects the American congolmerates to use this money to begin a new wave of investments in Europe.

The diplomatic repercussions have been so serious that the President's foreign policy czar, Henry Kissinger, is staffing up for a crash study of the monetary crisis. He wants to have a voice in setting monetary policy, with a view to its impact upon U.S.- European relations.

TAX DODGE AWARD-- Georgia Pacific, the giant lumber and paper goods corporation, has been selected for us by Fred Harris's Tax Action Campaign as "Tax Avoider of the Week." Georgia Pacific has been extraordinarily successful at chopping down its tax base. According to Harris, the tax laws, as they apply to most businesses, would have taken 48 per cent of Georgia Pacific's 1971 taxable profit of $117,600,000. These timber wolves, however, paid an effective tax rate of only 11.3 per cent, through a long list of special tax exemptions. Most startling: Profits from tree sales are treated as capital gains rather than ordinary income. Manufacturers of recycled paper, deprived of similar advantages, can't compete with Georgia Pacific's timber cutting cost cutting. Thus, the government's largess to Georgia Pacific makes all the talk about ecology as valuable as sawdust. Tax Action Campaign will confront the most flagrant tax evaders each week with leafletting and public demonstrations.

PRESIDENTIAL GOOF?-- Many troubled diplomats at the State Department, familiar with the full details of the shooting of Ambassador Cleo Noel and deputy George Moore in Khartoum, believe they might have been saved if President Nixon had kept his mouth shut. Shortly after he issued his tough statement that "we will not pay blackmail," the two men were executed by the Black September terrorists. Previously, the kidnappers had shown signs of relenting. Those who privately criticize the President agree with his stand against blackmail. They simply felt it was unnecessary to antagonize the kidnappers by proclaiming it to the world before every effort had been made to negotiate their release. Deputy Undersecretary William Macomber, who recently negoitated the release of another kidnapped ambassador, Clinton Knox, in Haiti, never got a chance to try his skill on the Black September terrorists who held Noel and Moore.

BANK REFORM-- Two years ago, we reported that 124 members of Congress has been granted loans at special low- interest rates by the National Bank of Washington. This is the bank owned by the United Mine Workers, which was then controlled by corrupt leaders. But the mine workers have now thrown out the old crowd and installed a man from the mines, Arnold Miller, as union president. We are pleased to report that he has quietly instructed the bank to cut out special bargain loans for congressmen.

VIETNAM INFILTRATION-- Intelligence reports claim the North Vietnamese are continuing to infiltrate military supplies into the South. The traffic down the Ho Chi Minh trail complex and across the demilitarized zone hasn't diminished since the cease- fire, the reports claim. They also charge that Communist guerrilla units had orders to seize strategic villages, roads and other positions immediately after the cease- fire was announced. Several small- scale attacks, indeed, were made. But most of them were beaten back by the South Vietnamese army.

MONEY

The impossibility of any one person keeping track of our legislative process in Washington is illustrated by the history of our new, ninety-third Congress, in the first 28 days of proceedings. In that brief time -- from the first of the year to the end of February -- members of the House and Senate had introduced over 7,000 measures; around 6,000 bills, 365 joint revolutions, 147 concurrent resolutions and 333 simple resolutions.

Most, but not all, of these legislative proposals called for increased expenditures by existing government bodies or the creation of new, additional government bureaus.

In considering these matters, the Senate, although it has fewer members, proved to be much longer winded then the House. That august body filled more then 3,700 pages in the Congressional Record, as against less than 1,300 pages for the House. Since the public printer manages to squeeze in up to 1,500 words on each page of the Record, our calculations indicate that something between seven and eight million words were printed before the first of March.

We don't know of anyone who has calculated how much it would cost the taxpayers if all proposed measures were to pass. Since the estimated cost of the bills are almost always much less than the actual amounts, we don't even dare guess what it would be.

We can count ourselves lucky that in these first two months of the 93rd Congress, only 162 of the proposed measures were passed into law. But there is no telling what our elected Representatives will do the rest of this year.

It well behooves the concerned taxpayer to either drop a note, make a phone call, or pay a visit to one of his Representatives. After all, the dollars they save will be your own!

But the National Federation of Independent Business reports that many businessmen are complaining that carriers are balking at settlement of loss and damage claims, and settlements are often arbitrary or unsatisfactory. Many business owners say the incidence of damaged or lost shipments has increased sharply in recent years. The result: millions of dollars of disputed claims.

Because of growing complaints, Sen. Alan Bible of Nevada, chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee, proposes legislation providing a claim's adjucation procedure within the Interstate Commerce Commission. Commerce Commission.

In addition, increasing theft and hijacking of cargo has aggravated the problem for both carrier and customer. The Small Business Committee estimates such crime at $1.5 billion a year.

A POLITICAL DIFFERENCE

A principal difference between the two political parties is openness.

Democrats generally are, Republicans generally aren't, and so reporters know and write more about the Democrats. Here in Iowa, for example, the Democratic State Central Committee meetings are open, if you want to go sleep through them; the Repbulican State Control Committee meetings are not open.

Also, Iowa Democrats usually invite reporters to the small big fund-risers; Republicans usually pretend they don't have such things.

So the Republicans had Missouri Gov. Chrisopher Bond here last week, but unless you caught his cheer-leading at their Lincoln Day dinner, you didn't get a chance at him because he was avialable for only one question.

Bond's prepared speech text praised Mr. Nixon's ending the war and so Register reporter Stephen Johnson had a question: Why do you think Mr. Nixon was unable to end the war earlier?

Bond answered by walking away without a word, and Ralph Zarnow's Orchestra played the "Missouri Waltz" as he walked to the head table.

Mainly because the waltz was Harry Truman's theme, one old reporter thought it would have been more fitting had the band played that popular tune of 20 or so years ago that had words something to the effect:

CRACKDOWN ON PORN

The tide of pornographic filth continues to invade American communities, causing concern and indignation on the part of thoughtful, decent citizens.

Recently, a reader wrote to me saying: "Sometime I would hope that you might ponder the possibility of a column in the shape of a prognosis as to what the American public may eventually do about the incursion of hard core pornography into our daily lives. First there were the 'adult' book stores, followed by the peep shows, the live sex, the movie houses and today the legitimate theatres showing unexpurgated sex as portrayed by well-known actors and actresses. TV will be next."

Well, I understand that a major new obscenity decision may be forthcoming from the U.S. Supreme Court in a case involving Andy Warhol's "Blue Movie." At the moment, prosecutors are hindered by rulings of the Warren Court. Former Chief Justice Earl Warren, an apostle of permissiveness, declared that "neither the courts nor legislatures have been able to evolve a truly satisfactory definition of obscenity." The Warren Court placed the burden on the prosecution of showing that pornographic material is "utterly without redeeming social value." Pornography has flooded the country since the landmark Roth case in 1957. The public can only hope that the largely reconstituted Supreme Court will establish the right of communities to control the smut peddlers.

In the meantime, the Nixon administration is doing what it can to combat the purveyors of filth. In recent months, FBI agents have seized hardcore pornographic films at theaters in the District of Columbia. The films were nabbed under a federal statute prohibiting interstate transportation of obscene material. The legal actions following these seizures are a maze of complexities. But the vigorous action by the U.S. Attorney's office seems to have had at least a limited deterrent effect on the operators of pornographic film houses in the nation's capital.

Congress, however, has virtually abdicated its responsibility to inquire into a great social evil. Historically, the spread of pornography has been a symptom of a civilization's weakening and breakdown. Mass distribution of printed and filmed filth is a threat to the moral fiber of America and should be thoroughly investigated by Congress. At the moment, infuential leaders in both houses are complaining that Congress is being by- passed and neglected. Yet Congress does nothing to probe into the operations of the pornography producing and distributing apparatus.

The media giants, such as THE NEW YORK TIMES, WASHINGTON POST and CBS, seem equally uniterested in the pornography problem, except insofar as it affects small areas such as New York City's Times Square. But the media giants have the investigative reports to dig out the facts about the pornography- producing apparatus. It would be fascinating to know why THE TIMES and the POST, for example, don't deploy teams of reporters to track down the links among pornography operators. Press investigation of the smut peddlers is one of the best ways to reverse the flow of filth.

The media giants display the greatest resourcefulness in digging into the backgrounds of federal appointees they don't like. But what about publicizing the names of the people who produce the pornography?

Who are the magnates in this filthy trade? Where do they get their operating funds? Where do they bank and invest their huge profits? Where do they live and who are their associates? Who owns the properties in which pornographic films are shown? How are the films and printed materials transported from state to state? Finally, what is the character and extent of organized crime involvement in the production, distribution and showing of pornography?

These are important questions which can and should be answered by determined news-gathering organizations.

Several years ago, a New York State commission reported that organized crime was deeply involved in the smut traffic. But virtually nothing has been done to follow up on that report. Like dope, pornography has a debasing effect on society. Every agency of government should use its powers to the utmost to curb the activities of the degenerates involed in the smut traffic.

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON-- "In the summertime it will be swim suits, shorts and raincoats," said ladies' garment workers chief Lou Stulberg, fielding the question as deftly as he handled fast ones during his semi- pro baseball shortstop days. "We've settled bras and underwear and embroidery. But we've got 225,000 people coming up."

He wasn't talking of styles. He was discussing what I dub the garment business's sixth season-- collective bargaining.

This year the sixth season comes early. In fact, it's here. Beware the Ides of March. For, on the march, right now, are leaders of several million workers. 'Tis the final struggle-- until next time. But now in many a closed room and secret rendezvous, the men who lead labor and the men from industry's executive suites confront each other.

For the moment, leading all the rest is the relatively little-known-- but not for long--- ex-Pacific beach- hitting Marine, Peter Bommarito, leader of the United Rubber Workers. Shortly after noontime March 12 in four Ohio cities, his lieutenants sat across from Rubber's Big Four--- Goodyear, Goodrich, Uniroyal and Firestone.

For the first time these unionists were leading all the rest into the battle of the green felt tables. Already, at off- the-record dinners and in hotel suites, leaders of the Teamsters, electrical equipment workers, auto workers, railroad employes and "ag- imp" (agricultural implements) craftsmen and hourly rated men and woman had been confidentially discussing the coming industrial battles.

And few have more at stake across those green felt and room service tables than President Nixon, George Shultz and company, meaning Harvard's Prof. John Dunlop who now is playing in the biggest league of his sensationally erudite life.

So, as they used to say in the newsreels, the eyes and ears of our world are on Pete Bommariot of Mogadore, Ohio, Akron's little suburb. What will "Pete get?"

What will he do to the "guidelines" which George Meany, Bommarito's latter-day mentor and ally, says he just doesn't like? There are 80,000 rubber workers involved in these discussions. The thrust is for more wages, job security and better pensions. What of the 5.5 per cent wage hike standard?

"We will be negotiating for a hunk of pie as everybody does," Bommarito told me. "The money will go for job security, pensions, early retirement plans-- 25 years and out and a monthly supplement of $250."

Then came some quick figures which seemed to total somewhere between 8 and 10 percent annual wage increases.

But what of the now-famed stick, the one in the closet?

"The administration will hold the sword of Damocles over us and surely he (the President) has a stick in the closet. We will find out what we have in our closet. Whatever we do we will try to do it without a confrontation. We hope and we will try. But if it takes confrontation, we will put forth the reasons for it."

Ex- Marine Bommarito was saying he'd strike if he had to against the big stick if it didn't soften into flexibility.

As he talked, there was movement on other fronts. General Electric prepared for the long green- felt sessions March 22 in New York with the ever- ebullient, still youngish, still avowedly Social Democratic Paul Jennings, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers--- and 13 other "coordinated" labor organizations. These range from Meany's plumbers to Frank Fitzsimmons' Teamsters.

Fitz was crisscrossing the nation, setting up screening and policy committees, polling his own members in preparation for the negotiations with the Trucking Employers, Inc.--- which speaks for some 1,800 hauling companies employing 425,000 drivers. The famed National Master Freight Agreement doesn't expire until June 30. But the independent Chicago truck drivers pact is up March 31, as is the agreement of pile-driving Louis Peick (a one- man powerhouse), president of Teamsters Local 705.

And then there is the now-solvent United Auto Workers (UAW), independent. They've gone through their skilled crafts and hourly rated conferences in New Orleans and Atlanta.

Now UAW president Leonard Woodcock and his high command are calling a special national collective bargaining policy convention for Detroit, March 22. There the rank- and- filers will roar it up. They have the most imaginative built- in demand-making mechanism on the labor front.

But there won't be much talk about the newest dillettante gadgetry-- job entichment, worker alienation, etc. The talk mostly will be of shorter hourse, longer holidays, guaranteed income, secure pensions and still earlier retirement. Of course, more money.

Big mystery. Whom will the 1.6 million- member union threaten first? Ford or Chyrsler? During the last (1970) strike, the GM walkout cost the union over $160 million. And it had to hock its national Detroit headquarters. Now on April 2, secretary treasurer-- second- in-command-- Emil Mazey, a veteran militant, will deliver a $25 million check over to the Teamsters and retake actual ownership of the big Solidarity House headquarters. And there will be some $55 million in the strike fund by September. Not the old $150 million.

That's petty cash and it might sober the militants. But who knows? After this comes the bargaining in the Big Four agricultural implement manufacturers. So on the UAW front the pay and fringes of about a million workers are on the table beginning mid-September.

So the White House is chary of the Ides of March. From now on it's all chain reaction stuff, opening of closet doors and banging of big sticks.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Europe Bitter and Angry Over Dollar Crisis: CIA

WASHINGTON— President Nixon's failure to intervene directly to check the international monetary crisis last week has caused bitterness and anger in the chanceries of Western Europe.

The secret diplomatic dispatches and intelligence reports from Europe indicate the feelings against the United States haven't run so high since the end of World War II. The President's handling of the monetary mess, in the opinion of most European leaders, threatens to plunge the world into a disastrous trade war. The result, they fear, could be a world depression.

Many blame the United States, according to the Central Intelligence Agency, for triggering the greatest international monetary crisis since the 1930s. The CIA reports, for example, that West German Chancellor Willy Brandt during a secret session with his ministers exploded: "The Americans must be taking leave of their senses!"

The cause of the crisis was a sudden flood of dollars into the exchange market. This forced European countries, particularly West Germany, to buy up dollars in order to keep their own currency stable. Twice now, these governments have been caught with their vaults full of dollars when President Nixon has devalued the dollar, thus sticking them with huge losses.

The Problem

The problem, somewhat oversimplified, is this: The dollar has been the backbone of the world monetary system for the past quarter century. Western Europe has depended upon the United States to bolster the dollar. But Washington took no firm action to halt the recent run on the dollar. The President's economic czar, Treasury Secretary George Shultz, came to a Paris monetary conference without instructions. He merely listened, with seeming detachment.

Brandt thought his attitude was senseless, but France's President Georges Pompidou considered it suspicious. The CIA reported that Pompidou, in private, was muttering darkly about U.S. economic imperialism.

As Pompidou sees it, according to the CIA, the United States is happy to dump its dollars on allied governments. The chief beneficiaries, Pompidou believes, are the great American corporations.

He suspects they have been selling dollars for European currencies, which have become more valuable as the dollar has weakened. Now he expects the American congolmerates to use this money to begin a new wave of investments in Europe.

The diplomatic repercussions have been so serious that the President's foreign policy czar, Henry Kissinger, is staffing up for a crash study of the monetary crisis. He wants to have a voice in setting monetary policy, with a view to its impact upon U.S.- European relations.

Washington Whirl

TAX DODGE AWARD-- Georgia Pacific, the giant lumber and paper goods corporation, has been selected for us by Fred Harris's Tax Action Campaign as "Tax Avoider of the Week." Georgia Pacific has been extraordinarily successful at chopping down its tax base. According to Harris, the tax laws, as they apply to most businesses, would have taken 48 per cent of Georgia Pacific's 1971 taxable profit of $117,600,000. These timber wolves, however, paid an effective tax rate of only 11.3 per cent, through a long list of special tax exemptions. Most startling: Profits from tree sales are treated as capital gains rather than ordinary income. Manufacturers of recycled paper, deprived of similar advantages, can't compete with Georgia Pacific's timber cutting cost cutting. Thus, the government's largess to Georgia Pacific makes all the talk about ecology as valuable as sawdust. Tax Action Campaign will confront the most flagrant tax evaders each week with leafletting and public demonstrations.

PRESIDENTIAL GOOF?-- Many troubled diplomats at the State Department, familiar with the full details of the shooting of Ambassador Cleo Noel and deputy George Moore in Khartoum, believe they might have been saved if President Nixon had kept his mouth shut. Shortly after he issued his tough statement that "we will not pay blackmail," the two men were executed by the Black September terrorists. Previously, the kidnappers had shown signs of relenting. Those who privately criticize the President agree with his stand against blackmail. They simply felt it was unnecessary to antagonize the kidnappers by proclaiming it to the world before every effort had been made to negotiate their release. Deputy Undersecretary William Macomber, who recently negoitated the release of another kidnapped ambassador, Clinton Knox, in Haiti, never got a chance to try his skill on the Black September terrorists who held Noel and Moore.

BANK REFORM-- Two years ago, we reported that 124 members of Congress has been granted loans at special low- interest rates by the National Bank of Washington. This is the bank owned by the United Mine Workers, which was then controlled by corrupt leaders. But the mine workers have now thrown out the old crowd and installed a man from the mines, Arnold Miller, as union president. We are pleased to report that he has quietly instructed the bank to cut out special bargain loans for congressmen.

VIETNAM INFILTRATION-- Intelligence reports claim the North Vietnamese are continuing to infiltrate military supplies into the South. The traffic down the Ho Chi Minh trail complex and across the demilitarized zone hasn't diminished since the cease- fire, the reports claim. They also charge that Communist guerrilla units had orders to seize strategic villages, roads and other positions immediately after the cease- fire was announced. Several small- scale attacks, indeed, were made. But most of them were beaten back by the South Vietnamese army.

Eagleton looks toward '74 campaign for re-election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas Eagleton, veteran of history's shortest vice-presidential campaign, is looking toward a new political test—his own re-election in 1974.

Missouri's junior Democratic senator says his stormy 17 days as a national candidate last summer made him a more popular figure in his home state.

"I think I came out of it stronger," Eagleton said in an interview. "There's certainly no problem of name identification any longer and from my mail and from the people I talk with I sense a very friendly feeling toward me."

But Eagleton says he will not allow that friendly feeling to lure him once again into a national campaign.

"To consider going through the cruel and unusual punishment of a national campain one has to have almost a feeling of lust for the office of President," Eagleton said. "And I don't have that deep gut desire."

Meanwhile he is concentrating on pushing a wide variety of Senate legislation ranging from presidential war powers to revamping the ways the nation deals with crime to the problems of old age.

Eagleton stepped down from the McGovern ticket last July 31 in the aftermath of widespread publicity following the disclosure he had twice undergone electric shock treatment for nervous depression.

"I don't look back on the experiences of last summer with a great deal of horror or any great negative feelings at all," Eagleton said. "It was a trying experience to be sure, but with the benefit of hindsight it wasn't one that causes me to cringe."

Eagleton said he attributes the smashing McGovern defeat to three major causes: The failure of McGovern to attract the 1968 vote of Alabama Gov. George Wallace, the inability of the Democratic party to unite its factions and the defection of AFL-CIO President George Meany, and to the political ability of President Nixon.

"He was a world statesman— Nixon," Eagleton said. "The man who had gone to Peking, gone to Moscow. The man who was ending American involvement in Southeast Asia. And he remained above the battle.

"While down on the battlefield it became almost a referendum on George McGovern. Whether you were for McGovern or against McGovern.

"He orchestrated policies and events so ably from a vote getting point of view that in 1972 I think he was unbeatable—by anyone," Eagleton said of Nixon.

Recently Eagleton succeeded in tacking onto the extension of President Nixon's wage-price authority an amendment preventing the White House from using that act as authority to impound funds appropriated by Congress.

He is a co-sponsor of legislation to define and balance the war making powers of the chief executive and Congress.

The former Missouri attorney general also has introduced a bill calling for a pilot program in several states to totally revamp their criminal justice systems, from arrests to prosecution, to sentencing to jail to probation.

These are other Eagleton legislative ventuees:

Patrol museum will open to public

JEFFERSON CITY — Col. Sam S. Smith, superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today announced that the patrol's law enforcement museum will be open to the public for the first time on March 16.

The museum, which is located at the patrol's general headquarters building in Jefferson City is the only one of its kind in the country. Thousands of items are on display in the museum dealing with transportation, the history of law enforcement and the history of the Missouri State Highway Patrol. Construction of the museum took over a year to complete.

Among items displayed in the museum are driver licenses issued at the turn of the century, various equipment used by the Highway Patrol in its early days, actual photographs of the infamous couple, Bonnie and Clyde, and balls and chains used on prisoners. Weapons used during the commission of crimes are also on display as well as unique drug abuse exhibits.

Col. Smith said that the purpose of the museum is to inform and educate the public in the techniques of law enforcement and to show the heritage of the highway patrol. He also pointed out that visitors will now need only tour the museum instead of the entire highway patrol general headquarters building complex.

Smith noted that the museum will be open to the public Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Large groups should make reservations by contacting the patrol's public information office in Jefferson City.

Bluff man swindled

POPLAR BLUFF-- Two men posing as Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, who swindled a Poplar Bluff man out of his life savings, are being sought by the highway patrol.

The men, well dressed with dark hair and dark complexions, went to the home of Alvia Larison, 73, of 1919 Eleven St. Wednesday morning, saying they were federal agents looking for counterfeit money and asked to take his money to the sheriff's office to check it with some counterfeit bills. Larison gave them $1,930. A while later he telephoned the sheriff's office to see if the men had arrived and was told no FBI men were working on such a case.

Township taxes can be ignored

EDITORS: The following income tax story makes an important correction in a story sent for pms last Saturday.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Most Missouri residents will not have to fill out the township portion of the revenue sharing information on their 1972 federal income tax return, the Internal Revenue Service said.

However, all residents of the state must complete other revenue sharing information, which is included on federal tax returns for the first time this year, District Director A. W. McCanless said.

McCanless was clarifying a previously published report (carried by The Associated Press) which said most residents in the state would not be required to complete the revenue sharing section.

He said Missouri residents may omit the township information only if they live in one of 24 counties—Barton, Batkes, Caldwell, Carroll, Cass, Chariton, Dade, Daviess, DeKalb, Dunklin, Gentry, Grundy, Harrison, Henry, Linn, Livingston, Mercer, Nodaway, Putnam, Stoddard, Sullivan, Texas, Vernon and Wright.

Mental Health Commission would have too much power

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Mental Health Commission would have too much power under the Senate bill reorganizing state government, says Dr. John Thiel, president of the Missouri Association for Mental Health.

Thiel said today the Senate bill changes the commission's authority from that of an advisory capacity to that of "being in complete authority of all aspects" of the proposed Department of Mental Health.

Mothers and infants major new concern

Maternal and infant health has become a major new concern of The National Foundation - March of Dimes, says its chairman, Harry E. Green, in the voluntary health organization's annual report released Monday.

A successful effort, the report declares, could save the lives of at least 14,000 American infants each year.

"The foundation has been leading the fight against birth defects for about 15 years," Mr. Green, who is senior vice president of Container Corporation of America, noted. "The foundation plans a concerted effort to encourage regional planning for the intensive care of pregnant mothers 'at risk' and of babies born in critical condition."

About 68,000 American babies die each year before reaching their first birthdays, the report states. On the average, infant mortality is nearly twice as common among nonwhites. Babies who are born premature or are "small for dates" have a much lower chance of survival than full-term babies wieghing more than 5 1/2 pounds.

To develop national guidelines for regional perinatal care programs the March of Dimes last year backed the formation of a Committee on Perinatal Health, headed by Dr. Sprague H. Gardiner, president of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

"If, working within the framework of existing health - care systems," Dr. Gardiner says, "we can redirect and revitalize the efforts of the medical specialties concerned so as to provide quality obstetric and neonatal care to every woman and newborn child in this land, thousands of cases of mental retardation and other birth defects can be prevented."

The March of Dimes also supports several pilot programs in regional perinatal medical services. Some are concerned with the training of nurse - midwives and with personnel to work in intensive care nurseries. Others explore methods of community health education in isolated rural areas. Other medical service and research grants are focused on the prevention or treatment of birth defects.

Last year Americans gave $33,754,540 to the March of Dimes to continue its work in research, medical service, public health education, and other programs, the report reveals. This was a 28 per cent increase over 1971.

Tips given on meat

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a series of articles on how to save money while shopping for food.)

By PAT GROJEAN

Meat is the main source of protein for most American families. Shopping for meat often gives homemakers a problem, especially new ones. Meat, fish and poultry take about one third of the American food dollar.

Meat provides protein vital to the body's health. Saving money on meat can be easier than you think because there is no appreciable nutritional difference between meat cuts.

In shopping for meat, the amount of bone and fat a cut contains should determine how much is needed for each serving.

When buying meat, consider the amount of lean meat in the cut, not the cost per pound. Some cuts contain bone, gristle, and fat waste. Meat with little fat and bone, such as flank steaks, boneless round and sirloin requires about one-quarter pound per serving.

Meat with some fat and bone, like chops and bone-in roasts, requires about one-third to one half pound per serving; while meat with considerable fat and bone, such as short ribs, must be served in portions of three quarters to a full pound per serving. Of course, these figures depend upon how many big eaters there are in your family.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, in the current issue of Family Economics Review, a quarterly publication, shows that a typical serving from a beef rib roast can cost about three times as much as a serving of turkey providing the same amount of protein.

Ground beef and beef short ribs may cost the same per pound, but ground beef will give twice as many servings per pound as the ribs.

The report indicated that a three- ounce serving of cooked, lean meat from beef, pork, poultry or fish will provide slightly over 20 grams of protein, which is one third of the recommended daily amount for a 20- year- old man.

For some processed products, however, protein content per pound is lower and consumers would have to eat more than three ounces to get 20 grams of protein, the report shows.

If you have adequate freezer space, purchase quantities of meats while they are on sale and you can save money.

Less expensive and less tender cuts of meats do not differ appreciably in nutritional value from their more expensive counterparts.

Beef, lamb and pork liver give unusually high nutritive returns for the money spent. Beef liver and pork liver are less expensive and just as nutritious as calf liver.

If cooked properly, the less expensive cuts of meat can be just as tasty as the more expensive cuts. A little meat tenderizer can make the less expensive cuts taste like the more expensive ones.

Canned luncheon meat is usually inexpensive and easy to prepare and serve. Sliced luncheon meat is more expensive than unsliced luncheon meat.

Use beef or pork liver, kidneys and sweetbreads as main dishes for inexpensive and highly nutritious meals.

Another hint is to use round steak which is low in calories and relatively inexpensive because it contains little waste.

Prepare and serve leftover meats in casseroles. Supplement the meat protein by adding protein- rich beans and peas.

U.S. grades can help the shopper determine the quality, but they are not always used by the processor.

To save money, stay away from already- prepared meat items, such as meat loaf, stuffed peppers and meatballs, Most of them are just hamburger meat at fancy prices.

Another way to obtain protein is simply to use other high protein foods, such as dried lima beans, peanut butter, cottage cheese, chicken, ocean perch fillets, milk, eggs, tuna and others.

Chicken and fish are also money saving items and will be discussed next.

Ann Landers

Some men have excuses to cheat

Dear Ann Landers: I have a few words for those crackpots who write to you and say their husbands are this and that and they've stopped sleeping with them for one reason or another. Don't these dummies realize that if the man is interested in sex and his wife isn't, he's going to get it someplace else? What's more, he feels justified in cheating because he tells himself he tried at home first.

I work the night shift in a plant and this place is loaded with men who are being locked out by their wives. Of course the single girls and the divorcees (and some of the married ones) have a ball. They have things worked out so well-- you'd flip if I told you the details.

I am about 15 years older than most of the women here and they tell me everything. Just today three young women told me about the wives of the men they've been seeing. This one won't cook a meal, that one has gained 30 pounds and walks around in a ratty bathrobe all day-- and another one has had a headache or a backache for six months. So tell those ding- a- lings to wake up, Ann. They've made their own trouble.-- Mama Leonie

Dear Mama: I'm sure some women do indeed provide their husbands with legitimate excuses to cheat, but you can bet your bridgework that most of those swingers have all the qualities of a dog-- except loyalty. There's something fourth- rate about a man who runs his wife down to another woman, especially as part of his pitch. Tell 'em I said so, honey.

Dear Ann Landers: Our darling daughter married at 18 right after high school graduation. We tried our best to get her to go to college or work for one year, but her mind was made up.

The boy she married was 19. My husband and I disliked him from the start. He was sloppy, ill- mannered and lazy. Our daughter saw none of these qualities and would not listen to a word of criticism.

Now, after a year (and a baby), he has no job and the three of them are living with us. Both my husband and I work and our son- in- law stays home, collects unemployment compensation and watches TV. My husband's patience is wearing thin and so is mine. Whenever I start to say something my daughter cries and begs me to leave him alone and give him a chance.

We can't throw them out in the street, Ann. What can we do?-- Trapped

Dear T.: So long as you provide bed and board (and a TV) you are going to have these "house guests" with you. And why not? It's easier to sponge than go to work.

Tell your daughter and son- in- law that they have 30 days to find a place of their own-- which means he'll have to go to work. You are doing them no favor by allowing them to continue this parasitic existence. In fact, your hospitality is crippling the boy emotionally.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is being married in June. She wants a small weddding, just the family and a few close friends. We plan to have it in our home and keep it intimate. Finances are a problem at this particular time and although we haven't said much, our daughter knows the situation and is being sweet and considerate.

Several shirt- tail relatives have been calling, trying to invite themselves. I find it very difficult to cope with such aggressiveness. I could never do such a thing. What can I say?-- Va.

Dear Va.: You can say, "We are having a very intimate wedding because this is what our daughter wants. We hope you will understand."

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Illinois 60654.

Mothers and infants major new concern

Maternal and infant health has become a major new concern of The National Foundation - March of Dimes, says its chairman, Harry E. Green, in the voluntary health organization's annual report released Monday.

A successful effort, the report declares, could save the lives of at least 14,000 American infants each year.

"The foundation has been leading the fight against birth defects for about 15 years," Mr. Green, who is senior vice president of Container Corporation of America, noted. "The foundation plans a concerted effort to encourage regional planning for the intensive care of pregnant mothers 'at risk' and of babies born in critical condition."

About 68,000 American babies die each year before reaching their first birthdays, the report states. On the average, infant mortality is nearly twice as common among nonwhites. Babies who are born premature or are "small for dates" have a much lower chance of survival than full-term babies wieghing more than 5 1/2 pounds.

To develop national guidelines for regional perinatal care programs the March of Dimes last year backed the formation of a Committee on Perinatal Health, headed by Dr. Sprague H. Gardiner, president of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists.

"If, working within the framework of existing health - care systems," Dr. Gardiner says, "we can redirect and revitalize the efforts of the medical specialties concerned so as to provide quality obstetric and neonatal care to every woman and newborn child in this land, thousands of cases of mental retardation and other birth defects can be prevented."

The March of Dimes also supports several pilot programs in regional perinatal medical services. Some are concerned with the training of nurse - midwives and with personnel to work in intensive care nurseries. Others explore methods of community health education in isolated rural areas. Other medical service and research grants are focused on the prevention or treatment of birth defects.

Last year Americans gave $33,754,540 to the March of Dimes to continue its work in research, medical service, public health education, and other programs, the report reveals. This was a 28 per cent increase over 1971.

KIDDERMINSTER, England (AP) — To find their angling champion, 200 national ambulance servicemen fished a stretch of canal in Worcestershire in a competition. Advance, coach Lanpher honored

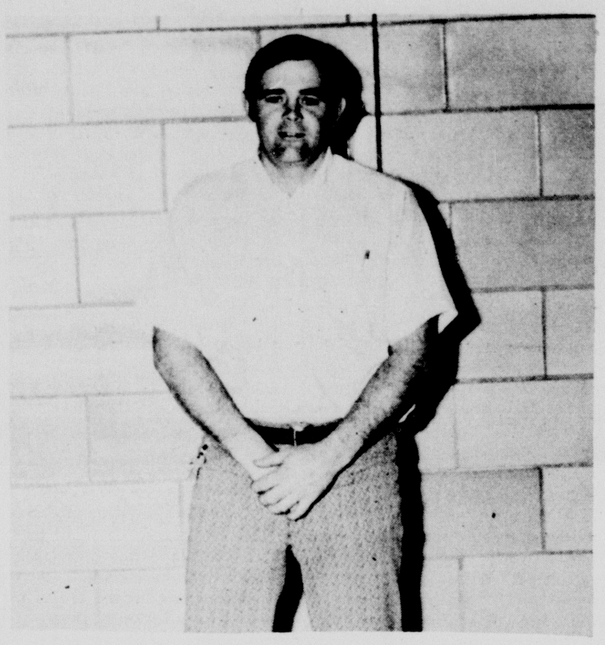
Basketball honors continue to pile up for the Advance Hornets and Kelly high school coach Nick Lanpher this week, after their state tournament appearances of two weeks ago.

Lanpher was named the Daily Standard's "Coach of the Year" by the papers sports panel of coaches and joined six other Southeast Missouri mentors in the illustrious group. Carroll Cookson, head coach of the AHS Hornets, was last year's receipant. Others named were Gary Wadlington of Charleston; Jim Hart of Matthews; New Madrid's Carroll Compton and Scott Central's Ron Cookson.

The Advance Hornets repeated as Southeast Missouri's "Number One Team" after the paper's annual banquet at which time the sports panel of coaches single out the final top ten teams, name the coach of the year and select the Daily Standard's 15- player dream team and name a 15-player all- academic squad.

Coach Carroll Cookson, the Daily Standard's 1972 receipant of the coach of the year award, led his team to second place in the class S state tournament and the school's best record (32-2) ever. The Hornets beat Cape Girardeau Central by five points, 115-110, for top honors and out-polled them by four first place votes, 8-4.

The Sikeston Bulldogs, the district's class L representative in the state tournament, placed sixth in the balloting after compiling a 7-13 season log.



Nick Lanpher

SHS lost its first 11 games of the season, but rebounded with the help of Pope Hunt to record a 7-2 mark the second half of the season.

Kelly racked up 86 points to place third. The Hawks won the Richland regional and then defeated Lilbourn, winner of the Kennett regional, in a first round state game before engaging the perienial state champion Lutheran South Lancers in the quarterfinal round of the state meet.

Lilbourn and Caruthersville tied for fourth place with 72 points. Sikeston garnered 43 points for sixth, Parma placed seventh with 36 points, Leadwood gained 29 points for eighth; Scott Central edged Matthews, 24-23, for ninth place.

The Daily Standard's All-Star and All-Academic teams will be announced next week.

The final poll with first place votes in parenthesis, total points and records at right:

(1)	Advance (8)	115	32-2
(2)	Cape Central (4)	110	23-2
(3)	Kelly	86	21-9

Bess comments on NCAA rule

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Junior college coaches are sharply divided over whether their basketball programs will be hurt by the NCAA's new scholarship eligibility policy.

The question was put to the 16 coaches whose teams reached the National Junior College Athletic Association's tournament, under way here.

Seven said yes, recruiting would be more difficult, seven said no, and two said some, perhaps, but not much.

Until recently the NCAA prohibited athletic scholarships to a student until his national test score and high school marks indicated he could maintain a 1.6 average in college. Now aid is permitted if an athlete graduated from high school with a 2.0 or C average.

Allen Bradfield, coach of defending champion Vincennes, Ind., said the change won't hurt juco ball.

"The 1.6 rule helped us when it first came out," he said, "but in the last three or four years the senior colleges have beaten the rule anyway if the kid was any good. I think the NCAA simply chose to do away with the rule rather than ignore it and not enforce it."

Leon Beaty, coach of Southeastern Community College, Burlington, Iowa, disagrees.

"It will hurt us," he says. "I imagine it might mean a slight drop in the caliber of juco ball. We'll still be able to get the marginal player with the marginal grades, but we won't get the super player with marginal grades. A lot of coaches in the senior colleges will take their chances of keeping the super player eligible after they get him in school under the new rule."

Said Coach Mike Perry, of Ulster, CC, Stone Ridge, Ny.: "When you give them the C average, you open the door for the major colleges to take these kids. He doesn't have to be an academic student; he can take shop or other snap courses his senior year to pull his average to a C and qualify for aid at a 4-year school."

Coaches Gene Bess of Three Rivers JF, Poplar Bluff, Mo., and Melvin Ottinger of Dalton, Ga, JC say the change may have some effect on juco recruiting but they are not alarmed.

"We recruit largely in our own area," Bess says, "and are able to hold our own pretty well with the larger schools. A lot of the kids would rather go to a junior college anyhow just for the chance to play more ball than they would likely play their first two years in a 4-year college."

Ottinger says "I feel the big schools may take some of the blue chippers we used to get but we'll get some of the marginal athletes they've been taking and some of these we can develop into outstanding players."

Coach Jim Haller of McLennan CC, Waco, Tex., comments: "I think the change will have a tremendous effect. I'm in a unique situation—I'm coaching a junior college team now but next season I'm going to a major college, Baylor, as an assistant. I've studied it from both sides. Several kids I have now I wouldn't have gotten without the 1.6 rule. At a lot of major colleges, it is no harder to keep an athlete eligible once he's in school than it is in your junior colleges."

Coach Gene Keady of Hutchinson Community Junior College, says he has two or three players this season he might not have gotten without the 1.6 rule, but adds: "I'm not too shook up about it. We're going to get our share of the good players anyway."

Other coaches who say the change will make little or no difference are Jerry Hale, College of Southern Idaho, Twin Falls; Joe Dan Gold, Paducah, Ky. CC; George Hauser, Bacone JC, Muskogee, Okla.; Gene Torczon, Platte JC, Columbus, Neb.; and Gene Duke, Olney, Ill., Central College.

Those who see the new NCAA policy as harmful to junior colleges include Jim Oler, Brevard CC, Cocoa, Fla.; Howie Landa, Mercer County CC, Trenton, N.J.; Douglas Allred, Dixie College, St. George, Utah; and Larry Wall, North Greenville College, Tigerville, S.C.

12. DEAN UNRUH T 6-3 240
OKLAHOMA (Born: June 12, 1951)

Third Oklahoma offensive lineman drafted by Cardinals also was two- time all- Big Eight selection. Started middle of sophomore season in 1970 -- same game as did 5th- round pick Tom Brahaney. In 1971, his blocking helped Sooners lead nation in rushing yardage, total offense and scoring. In 1972, the Sooners again led the country in rushing yardage (368.8 yards per game) and were second in total offense (477.7 yards per game). An Oklahoma assistant remarked: "I've never seen any player get up for a game more than Unruh." Native of Lakewood, Colorado, was high school all-stater three years, playing center and defensive tackle. Business major is single.

LAMAR UNIVERSITY (Born: April 29, 1950

Unlike the late Edward G. Robinson of gangster movie fame, his football playing namesake makes thefts only at the expense of opposing quarterbacks. Ironically, one of Robinson's two interceptions this year was at the expense of Texas - El Paso quarterback Gary Keithley, the Big Red's No. 2 draft pick. Robinson ran the interception back 40 yards, and the play was instrumental in a 42-28 Lamar victory. He also intercepted a pass in the end zone to contribute to two - point verdict over Arkansas State. Background is primarily in track. In his two years at San Jacinto Junior College, Pasadena, Texas he was national runner up in the pole vault at 15-3 and was named Junior College All- America. At Lamar he won last year's Southern Conference track meet triple jump at 49-7½ to set a school record. Robinson, who attended Wheatley High School in his hometown of Houston, graduated last December with a bachelor of science degree in physical education from Lamar. Single.

14. DAN PEIFFER G 6-3 245
SOUTHEAST MISSOURI (Born: March 29, 1951)

Two - year all- conference guard in Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Assn., Peiffer also played basketball and ran on the track team in high school before building up to his present weight. He was all- conference cager in senior year in high school, ran 440, threw shot and discus. 5.2 speed. Born in Sigourney, Iowa, attended high school at Keota, Iowa, Ellsworth Junior College at Iowa Falls and calls Harper, Iowa his hometown. Participated in intramural wrestling in college, hunts pheasants as hobby. Industrial arts major is single. S. E. Missouri coach Tom Thrower calls Peiffer " a real consistent blocker. His second effort was always outstanding. We ran at him a lot because we could count on him. At pass blocking he's the best we've had."

Big Red draftees

(Born: May 7, 1951)

Coincidentally, both the 14th and 15th round draft choices attended Ellsworth Junior College at Iowa Falls. While there Parker averaged 14 points a game in helping the basketball team to a 26-7 record and a national championship. For his junior and senior years he transferred to Duke where he played for Blue Devil coach Mike McGee, a former Big Red guard. At Duke, Parker was named All- Atlantic Coast Conference at defensive end and played in the Blue- Gray game. Because of his size he will be tried at linebacker by the Cardinals. Missed five games of junior year with knee injury but came back to play the entire schedule in 1972. Has fine speed. A native of Portsmouth, Virginia, he has one brother and five sisters. Attended Canarsie High School at Brooklyn, New York. A psychology major at Duke, his leisure time interests are music and basketball. Single

16. JAMES HANN LB 6-2 230 MONTANA
(Born: October 15, 1951)

Versatile athlete drafted as linebacker by Cardinals after playing tight end in junior year, and offensive tackle as senior. Latter move made after offensive line graduated following 1971 season. Hann was named All- Big Sky Conference at tackle spot as senior. In high school at Aberdeen, Washington, he was on football, basketball and track teams. He threw the shot in the 50-foot range and high jumped 6 feet. Attended Grays Harbor Junior College in Washington two years. Native of Vincennes, Indiana is minister's son and one of five brothers. Sikeston high school trackmen repeated as the Sikeston indoor invitational track meet champions last night as they edged out Poplar Bluff and Paducah-Tilghman while five meet records fell by the wayside.

Three of the five meet records were set by SHS tracksters. In the long jump, Curtis Bean bettered his own record set just last year of 21- feet, three- and- a half inches by leaping 22 feet seven- and- a- half inches.

Phil Cannon set a new mark of two- minutes, three- and- three- tenths seconds to break the old mark of two- minutes, three- and- nine- tenths seconds in the 88- yard run.

The Sikeston mile relay team of Phil Cannon, Curtis Bean, Clifton Ham, and Jerry Wilder bettered the meet record set by last year's Poplar Bluff relay team by seven- tenths of a second with a winning time of three- minutes, 39- and- a- half seconds.

Robert Dodd of Poplar Bluff also high jumped six- feet, three- quarters inches to better the old mark of six feet set in the meet last season.

SHS' bill Green captured first in the 65- yard low hurdles with a victory pace of seven- and- a- half seconds for the event.

Jerry Wilder of Sikeston was also good for a fourth place berth in the long jump.

Aaron aims at home run record

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Old-time baseball fans who were steadfast in their belief that Babe Ruth's hallowed record of 714 home runs would never be broken, now must face reality—Hank Aaron will do it ... barring injury.

The 39-year-old Atlanta Braves' slugger, needing only 41 homers to tie Ruth's longstanding record and 42 to break it, made it emphatically clear Wednesday that he was taking dead aim on the Babe's total— and if he reaches it this season, he will quit.

"If I should get extra lucky and hit 42 homers this season, I'm planning on quitting," he said. "But my real plan, which is more realistic, is to hit at least 42 in two seasons."

Aaron, with a career total of 673 homers, including 34 last season, said his goal this year is 35 homers. That would leave him six short of Ruth's record, and make the buildup overwhelming for the 1974 campaign.

Aaron didn't hit any homers Wednesday as the winless Braves lost their fifth exhibition game, 4-3 to the Chicago White Sox. Tony Muser led the White Sox with three runs batted in, including two with a double during a three-run first inning.

Meanwhile, rookie outfielder Al Bumbry had three hits, including a run-scoring double and a game-winning single, helping the Baltimore Orioles edge the Minnesota Twins 4-3. Bumbry also drew a walk, stole a base and threw out a Minnesota runner at the plate.

Veteran Jim Lyttle, fighting for a berth on the Kansas City roster, improved his chances by driving in two runs and scoring another in the Royals' 3-2 victory over Philadelphia, the Phillies' first loss in six games.

The Boston Red Sox rallied for a 7-6 victory over the Montreal Expos on Ben Ogilvie's run-scoring double in the eighth inning. Cecil Cooper, who scored the winning run, had reached base on a two-run single and earlier hit a solo homer.

The Los Angeles Dodgers parlayed two-run homers by Von Joshua and Bill Russell and six Pittsburgh errors for a 10-2 rout over the Pirates. Joshua's was a 450-foot blast over the center field fence while Pittsburgh's Manny Sanguillen smashed a 400-foot homer over the left field fence.

The New York Yankees scored twice in the sixth inning on singles by Roy White, Graig Nettles and Felipe Alou, a walk to Ron Blomberg and a hit batsman, and went on to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 3-1.

Joe Hague drove in three runs and rookie Ken Griffey knocked in two, leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 7-3 victory over the Houston Astros.

Jerry Grote had two hits, drove in one run and scored another, sparking the New York Mets to a 6-4 triumph mover the Detroit Tigers.

Ivan Murrell and Dave Roberts each rapped a single and a double while Dan Spillner, Bob Graczyk and Bill Laxton combined for a six-hitter as the San Diego Padres trimmed Arizona State University 4-1.

And four games were rained out—the Chicago Cubs against California, San Francisco-Milwaukee, Cleveland-Oakland, and California's "B" team against Oakland's "B" squad.

12. DEAN UNRUH T 6-3 240
OKLAHOMA (Born: June 12, 1951)

Third Oklahoma offensive lineman drafted by Cardinals also was two- time all- Big Eight selection. Started middle of sophomore season in 1970 -- same game as did 5th- round pick Tom Brahaney. In 1971, his blocking helped Sooners lead nation in rushing yardage, total offense and scoring. In 1972, the Sooners again led the country in rushing yardage (368.8 yards per game) and were second in total offense (477.7 yards per game). An Oklahoma assistant remarked: "I've never seen any player get up for a game more than Unruh." Native of Lakewood, Colorado, was high school all-stater three years, playing center and defensive tackle. Business major is single.

LAMAR UNIVERSITY (Born: April 29, 1950

Unlike the late Edward G. Robinson of gangster movie fame, his football playing namesake makes thefts only at the expense of opposing quarterbacks. Ironically, one of Robinson's two interceptions this year was at the expense of Texas - El Paso quarterback Gary Keithley, the Big Red's No. 2 draft pick. Robinson ran the interception back 40 yards, and the play was instrumental in a 42-28 Lamar victory. He also intercepted a pass in the end zone to contribute to two - point verdict over Arkansas State. Background is primarily in track. In his two years at San Jacinto Junior College, Pasadena, Texas he was national runner up in the pole vault at 15-3 and was named Junior College All- America. At Lamar he won last year's Southern Conference track meet triple jump at 49-7½ to set a school record. Robinson, who attended Wheatley High School in his hometown of Houston, graduated last December with a bachelor of science degree in physical education from Lamar. Single.

14. DAN PEIFFER G 6-3 245
SOUTHEAST MISSOURI (Born: March 29, 1951)

Two - year all- conference guard in Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Assn., Peiffer also played basketball and ran on the track team in high school before building up to his present weight. He was all- conference cager in senior year in high school, ran 440, threw shot and discus. 5.2 speed. Born in Sigourney, Iowa, attended high school at Keota, Iowa, Ellsworth Junior College at Iowa Falls and calls Harper, Iowa his hometown. Participated in intramural wrestling in college, hunts pheasants as hobby. Industrial arts major is single. S. E. Missouri coach Tom Thrower calls Peiffer " a real consistent blocker. His second effort was always outstanding. We ran at him a lot because we could count on him. At pass blocking he's the best we've had."

Big Red draftees

(Born: May 7, 1951)

Coincidentally, both the 14th and 15th round draft choices attended Ellsworth Junior College at Iowa Falls. While there Parker averaged 14 points a game in helping the basketball team to a 26-7 record and a national championship. For his junior and senior years he transferred to Duke where he played for Blue Devil coach Mike McGee, a former Big Red guard. At Duke, Parker was named All- Atlantic Coast Conference at defensive end and played in the Blue- Gray game. Because of his size he will be tried at linebacker by the Cardinals. Missed five games of junior year with knee injury but came back to play the entire schedule in 1972. Has fine speed. A native of Portsmouth, Virginia, he has one brother and five sisters. Attended Canarsie High School at Brooklyn, New York. A psychology major at Duke, his leisure time interests are music and basketball. Single

(Born: October 15, 1951)

Versatile athlete drafted as linebacker by Cardinals after playing tight end in junior year, and offensive tackle as senior. Latter move made after offensive line graduated following 1971 season. Hann was named All- Big Sky Conference at tackle spot as senior. In high school at Aberdeen, Washington, he was on football, basketball and track teams. He threw the shot in the 50-foot range and high jumped 6 feet. Attended Grays Harbor Junior College in Washington two years. Native of Vincennes, Indiana is minister's son and one of five brothers. Sings in choir and works in musical drama productions at college. Physical education major is single.

17. ERIC CRONE QB 6-3 210 HARVARD
(Born: July 19, 1950)

Final round pick is Ivy League quarterback with same physical proportions as No. 2 selection Gary Keithley. The big signal caller became something of a folk hero on the Harvard campus by beating Yale in his sophomore and junior season, but he lost to the Bulldogs in 1972. Attended Platt and Herman prep schools in New England, lettering four years in track and two in skiing. History major. Has two brothers and a sister. Single.

Sikeston high school trackmen repeated as the Sikeston indoor invitational track meet champions last night as they edged out Poplar Bluff and Paducah-Tilghman while five meet records fell by the wayside.

Three of the five meet records were set by SHS tracksters. In the long jump, Curtis Bean bettered his own record set just last year of 21- feet, three- and- a half inches by leaping 22 feet seven- and- a- half inches.

Phil Cannon set a new mark of two- minutes, three- and- three- tenths seconds to break the old mark of two- minutes, three- and- nine- tenths seconds in the 88- yard run.

The Sikeston mile relay team of Phil Cannon, Curtis Bean, Clifton Ham, and Jerry Wilder bettered the meet record set by last year's Poplar Bluff relay team by seven- tenths of a second with a winning time of three- minutes, 39- and- a- half seconds.

Robert Dodd of Poplar Bluff also high jumped six- feet, three- quarters inches to better the old mark of six feet set in the meet last season.

SHS' bill Green captured first in the 65- yard low hurdles with a victory pace of seven- and- a- half seconds for the event.

Jerry Wilder of Sikeston was also good for a fourth place berth in the long jump.

Terror bombs rip Buddhist gathering

SAIGON (AP)— A series of explosions ripped through a crowd of Buddhists at a religious service before dawn today in the Mekong Delta, killing or wounding more than 100 persons. It was the worst terrorist attack reported in the 47- day- old cease- fire.

The South Vietnamese military command said 17 persons were killed and 88 were wounded, but the deputy police chief of the province said there were 20 dead and 82 wounded.

Most of the victims were Cambodians native to the region, according to Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, the chief spokesman for the Saigon command.

Both Hien and the deputy police chief blamed the attack on Communist terrorists.

Hien said several grenades were thrown into the Soai Kiem Pagoda in Tra Cu, a district town in Vinh Binh province 80 miles south of Saigon. But the deputy police chief said the attack may have been made with rockets fired from outside the town.

No arrests were made.

Hien said he had no information on the likely motive for the attack but added, without explanation, that the police and the militia had anticipated trouble. Police forces have been present around Buddhist pagodas in Vinh Binh since a series of clashes there in 1971 between Cambodian monks and government authorities over the rights of the Cambodian minority.

Vinh Binh is in an area of the delta that once was part of Cambodia and a large part of the population is of Cambodian descent. There has always been enmity or tension between the Cambodians and the Vietnamese.

Saigon authorities said a field team of the International Commission of Control and Supervision flew to Tra Cu to investigate. The South Vietnamese delegation to the Joint Military Commission also lodged a protest with that peacekeeping organization.

Federal cutback hits deep into Caruthersville program

CARUTHERSVILLE — Two and a half years of work on a neighborhood development program for the city of Caruthersville has gone down the drain, Mayor Bill Inman said Tuesday, because of the government's massive cutback to get the federal budget to President Richard Nixon's liking.

"The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) in St. Louis had $500,000 reserved for Caruthersville a few weeks ago, in the form of a grant to be used toward a neighborhood development program," the mayor said. "Because of the many cutbacks, which include this particular program, the reserve has been withdrawn."

This is the second half=million dollar project the city has lost in the last two years. The first was the Caruthersville community center project.

Inman said the necessary papers had been submitted and approved with the grant reserved, pending approval from Washington. "The money will now be used, I suppose, to finish ongoing programs started before the cutbacks began."

"As in many other things recently, we (the city) started 10 to 15 years too late in efforts to retrieve several million dollars in income tax money paid by Pemiscot County citizens," he said. "If we had started earlier in doing this, we would have already had this program underway."

Included in the 100- page plus document of plans were extensive drainage work, street repairs, curb and guttering, lighting, etc.

"What it was, in effect," the mayor remarked, "was a small urban renewal program which we now will have to abandon."

The mayor said a list of priorities designated for revenue sharing will have to be revised because of the development.

"A large part of the $500,000 was going for improvements at the water plant, an area that cannot be overlooked anymore," he said. The mayor remarked that the city's consultants have listed many areas at the water plant in need of repairs or additions.

"I would say now that the water plant will be the number one priority for revenue sharing funds with street and guttering work second," he said.

Five from East Prairie picked for Boys State

EAST PRAIRIE — Dart Davis, Mark Hurt, Steve Myers, Joe Sorrells, and Steve Husk have been chosen to represent East Prairie at the 1973 session of the Boys State of Missouri.

Boys State is sponsored by the American Legion and will be held at Central Missouri State University in Warrensburg, Missouri on June 16-23.

The purpose for this program is to educate the youth in the duties, privileges, responsibilities and rights of American citizenship through a system of "learning by doing." Developing leadership, getting back to the fundamentals of our form of government, making Boys State a laboratory of practical political science and training in functional citizenship are the objectives of this program.

Many activities are carried out during the sessions. The boys learn quite a bit and have fun as they learn. This has proven to be a good experience for all boys involved.

Davis is sponsored by Hogan's Farm Supply; Hurt, by Community Teachers Association; Myers, by the Kiwanis Club; Sorrells, by First Bank; and Husk, by the Lions Club.

The sponsors will pay for the expense of the trip, plus lodging and registration fees.

Evans fined

EAST PRAIRIE — James William Evans was arrested Wednesday and fined $100 in City Court this morning on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Bain, Dowdy file for Hayti mayor

Races have developed for all Hayti city positions, with the exception of city attorney, a post currently held by Caruthersville attorney James A. Vicktry, and police judge, held by P. O. Davis.

In the contest for city collector, Bob Turnage, the incumbent, is opposed by Fred Chaffin. Police Chief Fred M. (Fritz) McKay is opposed by Kermit Ledbetter, a lieutenant on the Hayti police force.

Federal cutback hits deep into Caruthersville program

CARUTHERSVILLE — Two and a half years of work on a neighborhood development program for the city of Caruthersville has gone down the drain, Mayor Bill Inman said Tuesday, because of the government's massive cutback to get the federal budget to President Richard Nixon's liking.

"The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) in St. Louis had $500,000 reserved for Caruthersville a few weeks ago, in the form of a grant to be used toward a neighborhood development program," the mayor said. "Because of the many cutbacks, which include this particular program, the reserve has been withdrawn."

This is the second half=million dollar project the city has lost in the last two years. The first was the Caruthersville community center project.

Inman said the necessary papers had been submitted and approved with the grant reserved, pending approval from Washington. "The money will now be used, I suppose, to finish ongoing programs started before the cutbacks began."

"As in many other things recently, we (the city) started 10 to 15 years too late in efforts to retrieve several million dollars in income tax money paid by Pemiscot County citizens," he said. "If we had started earlier in doing this, we would have already had this program underway."

"What it was, in effect," the mayor remarked, "was a small urban renewal program which we now will have to abandon."

The mayor said a list of priorities designated for revenue sharing will have to be revised because of the development.

"A large part of the $500,000 was going for improvements at the water plant, an area that cannot be overlooked anymore," he said. The mayor remarked that the city's consultants have listed many areas at the water plant in need of repairs or additions.

"I would say now that the water plant will be the number one priority for revenue sharing funds with street and guttering work second," he said.

Five from East Prairie picked for Boys State

EAST PRAIRIE — Dart Davis, Mark Hurt, Steve Myers, Joe Sorrells, and Steve Husk have been chosen to represent East Prairie at the 1973 session of the Boys State of Missouri.

Boys State is sponsored by the American Legion and will be held at Central Missouri State University in Warrensburg, Missouri on June 16-23.

The purpose for this program is to educate the youth in the duties, privileges, responsibilities and rights of American citizenship through a system of "learning by doing." Developing leadership, getting back to the fundamentals of our form of government, making Boys State a laboratory of practical political science and training in functional citizenship are the objectives of this program.

Many activities are carried out during the sessions. The boys learn quite a bit and have fun as they learn. This has proven to be a good experience for all boys involved.

Davis is sponsored by Hogan's Farm Supply; Hurt, by Community Teachers Association; Myers, by the Kiwanis Club; Sorrells, by First Bank; and Husk, by the Lions Club.

The sponsors will pay for the expense of the trip, plus lodging and registration fees.

Evans fined

EAST PRAIRIE — James William Evans was arrested Wednesday and fined $100 in City Court this morning on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Bain, Dowdy file for Hayti mayor

HAYTI — Former Hayti mayor Lee Roy Bain has filed to oppose Harry B. Dowdy, present mayor, in the April 3 city election.

Dowdy won over Bain in the 1971 election by a two-vote margin, initially. However, when Bain contested the results it was found that Dowdy had won with a 272-vote margin.

Races have developed for all Hayti city positions, with the exception of city attorney, a post currently held by Caruthersville attorney James A. Vicktry, and police judge, held by P. O. Davis.

In the contest for city collector, Bob Turnage, the incumbent, is opposed by Fred Chaffin. Police Chief Fred M. (Fritz) McKay is opposed by Kermit Ledbetter, a lieutenant on the Hayti police force.

Vitamin D, the shunshine vitamin so vital to health, is found in but a few foods, such as eggs, salt water fish, and summer milk. THERE'S A WORLD OF ADVENTURE IN A FLOWER SEED DISPLAY

It was the Spanish Conquistadors who first discovered marigolds growing in South America, and the picture above shows a magnificent display growing in a Spanish mission.

New seed displays are brightening up stores across the country — and some fascinating stories surround the origins of many of the flower seed varieties on display.

Most have been discovered by plant explorers who risked life and limb in strange countries in their search for new flowers to beautify our gardens. Indeed, the greatest voyage of discovery before man went to the moon was sponsored by a botanist, Sir Joseph Banks, who 200 years ago financed the expeditions of Captain James Cook, which resulted in the discovery of New Zealand, Hawaii and Alaska.

More modest plant expeditions are in progress today, and since 1956 the United States Department of Agriculture has sent 13 plant expeditions around the world.

China has been a rich source of new flowers, including hollyhocks, oriental poppies and asters. Africa has yielded carnations and snapdragons, while Europe gave us sweet peas, foxgloves, and shirley poppies. From South America came nasturtiums, petunias, morning glories, scarlet sage, portulaca and verbenas, while in Mexico the Spanish Conquistadors first set eyes on ageratum, zinnias, marigolds, cosmos and dahlias.

Native American plants include the sunflower (now a vital part of Russia's economy on account of its vitamin-rich, oil-producing seeds), the columbine, gloriosa daisies, phlox and California poppies.

All these popular garden flowers are very easy-to-grow, and can be found in most seed displays in your local store. Take a new look at the beautiful array, and bring a world of beauty into your garden this year.

Don't Limit Tree Roses To The Rose Garden

To many people, all roses belong in just one outdoor area — the rose garden. Actually, that is not true of any rose, particularly specialized types such as the tree rose.

Tree roses are an elegant, man-made form, comprising generally the root of one species, the trunk or standard of another, and the top of any one of the gorgeous modern rose hybrids.

While tree roses do add greatly as accent points in a rose garden, they are equally at home and appropriately serve the same purpose in many other areas of the home grounds — along the drive or a walk, particularly with low evergreens planted around their bases, to accent terraces or steps, entrance areas, in fact almost anywhere a tall, formal, elegant plant will add to the beauty and design of the area.

Warning: Voting for more than the total number of candidates to be chosen for any office will invalidate this ballot.

Pete Seeger Is Ecology-Minded

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Seeger, folksinger of the hootenanny and of the Weavers, the first folk group really to become popular, did a lot to set the stage for America's big folk music boom of the 1960s.

Now there's a book about it — the stage setting and the stage — called "The Incompleat Folksinger." Seeger calls it "a big bramble patch you have to wade through in hope of picking a few sweet berries."

He says, "It's a collection of little articles I've written over about 20 years for a microscopic folk magazine called Sing Out and a couple of magazines like it and letters I wrote back home from trips around the world. Most of the best stories and anecdotes I ever knew are in the book. It's also got my thoughts on what was going on and how to sing gospel bass and advice to aspiring folksingers and so on. The result is neither a true record of all the mistakes I have made in the past nor of all the mistakes I'm making right now.

"I've been yodeling around the world making a fool of myself for all of 34 1/2 years. I would disagree with anybody who says that one of these things can be solved without solving the others. I think the world is going to solve it all at the same time. As long as I think there's a chance I'll hang in there.

About the songs he has written, Seeger says, "I think two or three may outlast my lifetime. Not many songwriters are that lucky. 'Where Have All the Flowers Gone?', 'Turn, Turn, Turn' and 'If I Had a Hammer' may last. I'd be happy if within my lifetime I could say the human race has learned and 'Where Have All the Flowers Gone?' will be a relic of the past."

Seeger's best-selling record has been "Goodnight Irene," 22 years ago, when he was a member of the Weavers. In his concerts he always has sing alongs. "It's a direct example of how people can sing together. Also it gives the example that you can like a song though it comes from a strange culture — Africa or Asia.

"I think the only hope of the world is human beings getting together. So in my own limited way I've been trying to bring them together."

PETE SEEGER

dropped out of Harvard in 1938. I tried to get a job as a newspaper reporter and failed. I did stay in Harvard long enough to learn how to use a library, which stood me in very good stead.

"Twenty-three years ago my wife and I were dead broke and wanted to live in the country so I went to the New York Public Library and looked up log cabins and I was able to build the house which we still live in, 60 miles north of New York on the Hudson River.

"Before I left college I was up to my ears in the student movement. Woody Guthrie and I used to sing for the CIO before World War II. That was so long ago, I really feel like Grandpa," adds Seeger, who has two grandchildren.

About the word folksinger, Seeger says it is used in two different ways, anthropologists meaning singers of old, anonymous songs of the peasants. "A better title for me would be a professional singer of amateur music.

"I urge people, if you like music, don't think you have to become professional to make music. There's a lot in the book about that."

Seeger now is known for his interest in ecology, especially his sailing on the Hudson River sloop, the Clearwater, which goes from town to town on the river giving people rides and telling them to clean up the river.

"That interest kind of snuck up on me," he explains. "I was a nature nut as a kid. But then I put that kind of behind me. In the 1960s 'Silent Spring' and other books pointed to the fact that the environmental crisis could not wait. With the problem of racism, violence, militarism and poverty to work on, pollution pushed its way to the forefront.

"The funny thing is, I really consider this one big crisis. I

THERE'S A WORLD OF ADVENTURE IN A FLOWER SEED DISPLAY

It was the Spanish Conquistadors who first discovered marigolds growing in South America, and the picture above shows a magnificent display growing in a Spanish mission.

New seed displays are brightening up stores across the country — and some fascinating stories surround the origins of many of the flower seed varieties on display.

Most have been discovered by plant explorers who risked life and limb in strange countries in their search for new flowers to beautify our gardens. Indeed, the greatest voyage of discovery before man went to the moon was sponsored by a botanist, Sir Joseph Banks, who 200 years ago financed the expeditions of Captain James Cook, which resulted in the discovery of New Zealand, Hawaii and Alaska.

More modest plant expeditions are in progress today, and since 1956 the United States Department of Agriculture has sent 13 plant expeditions around the world.

China has been a rich source of new flowers, including hollyhocks, oriental poppies and asters. Africa has yielded carnations and snapdragons, while Europe gave us sweet peas, foxgloves, and shirley poppies. From South America came nasturtiums, petunias, morning glories, scarlet sage, portulaca and verbenas, while in Mexico the Spanish Conquistadors first set eyes on ageratum, zinnias, marigolds, cosmos and dahlias.

Native American plants include the sunflower (now a vital part of Russia's economy on account of its vitamin-rich, oil-producing seeds), the columbine, gloriosa daisies, phlox and California poppies.

All these popular garden flowers are very easy-to-grow, and can be found in most seed displays in your local store. Take a new look at the beautiful array, and bring a world of beauty into your garden this year.

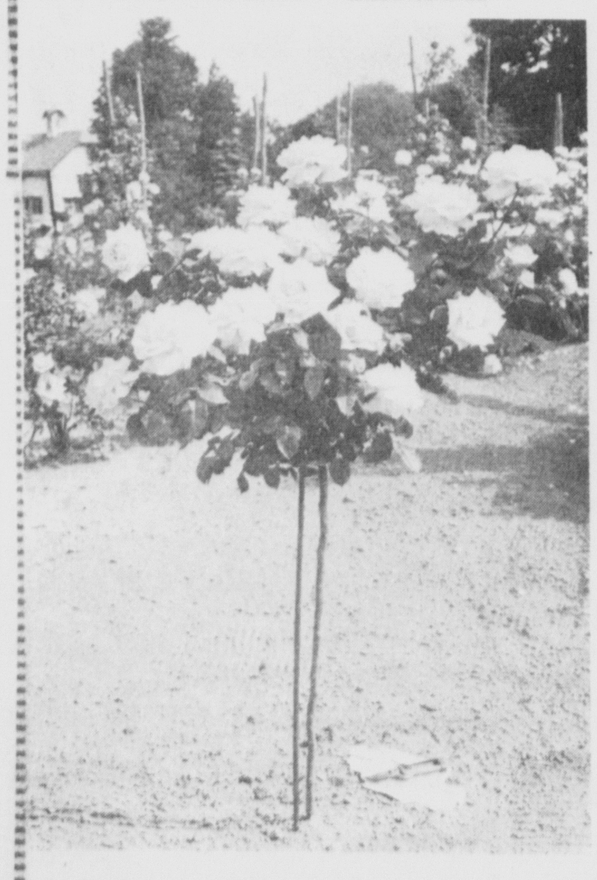
Don't Limit Tree Roses To The Rose Garden



To many people, all roses belong in just one outdoor area — the rose garden. Actually, that is not true of any rose, particularly specialized types such as the tree rose.

Tree roses are an elegant, man-made form, comprising generally the root of one species, the trunk or standard of another, and the top of any one of the gorgeous modern rose hybrids.

While tree roses do add greatly as accent points in a rose garden, they are equally at home and appropriately serve the same purpose in many other areas of the home grounds — along the drive or a walk, particularly with low evergreens planted around their bases, to accent terraces or steps, entrance areas, in fact almost anywhere a tall, formal, elegant plant will add to the beauty and design of the area.

Pete Seeger Is Ecology-Minded

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Seeger, folksinger of the hootenanny and of the Weavers, the first folk group really to become popular, did a lot to set the stage for America's big folk music boom of the 1960s.

Now there's a book about it — the stage setting and the stage — called "The Incompleat Folksinger." Seeger calls it "a big bramble patch you have to wade through in hope of picking a few sweet berries."

He says, "It's a collection of little articles I've written over about 20 years for a microscopic folk magazine called Sing Out and a couple of magazines like it and letters I wrote back home from trips around the world. Most of the best stories and anecdotes I ever knew are in the book. It's also got my thoughts on what was going on and how to sing gospel bass and advice to aspiring folksingers and so on. The result is neither a true record of all the mistakes I have made in the past nor of all the mistakes I'm making right now.

"I've been yodeling around the world making a fool of myself for all of 34 1/2 years. I dropped out of Harvard in 1938. I tried to get a job as a newspaper reporter and failed. I did stay in Harvard long enough to learn how to use a library, which stood me in very good stead.

"Twenty-three years ago my wife and I were dead broke and wanted to live in the country so I went to the New York Public Library and looked up log cabins and I was able to build the house which we still live in, 60 miles north of New York on the Hudson River.

"Before I left college I was up to my ears in the student movement. Woody Guthrie and I used to sing for the CIO before World War II. That was so long ago, I really feel like Grandpa," adds Seeger, who has two grandchildren.

About the word folksinger, Seeger says it is used in two different ways, anthropologists meaning singers of old, anonymous songs of the peasants. "A better title for me would be a professional singer of amateur music.

"I urge people, if you like music, don't think you have to become professional to make music. There's a lot in the book about that."

Seeger now is known for his interest in ecology, especially his sailing on the Hudson River sloop, the Clearwater, which goes from town to town on the river giving people rides and telling them to clean up the river.

"That interest kind of snuck up on me," he explains. "I was a nature nut as a kid. But then I put that kind of behind me. In the 1960s 'Silent Spring' and other books pointed to the fact that the environmental crisis could not wait. With the problem of racism, violence, militarism and poverty to work on, pollution pushed its way to the forefront.

"The funny thing is, I really consider this one big crisis. I would disagree with anybody who says that one of these things can be solved without solving the others. I think the world is going to solve it all at the same time. As long as I think there's a chance I'll hang in there.

About the songs he has written, Seeger says, "I think two or three may outlast my lifetime. Not many songwriters are that lucky. 'Where Have All the Flowers Gone?', 'Turn, Turn, Turn' and 'If I Had a Hammer' may last. I'd be happy if within my lifetime I could say the human race has learned and 'Where Have All the Flowers Gone?' will be a relic of the past."

Seeger's best-selling record has been "Goodnight Irene," 22 years ago, when he was a member of the Weavers. In his concerts he always has sing alongs. "It's a direct example of how people can sing together. Also it gives the example that you can like a song though it comes from a strange culture — Africa or Asia.

"I think the only hope of the world is human beings getting together. So in my own limited way I've been trying to bring them together."

The Geysir (gusher) near Mt. Hekia in South Central Iceland, from which all others have been named, spurts on occasions, to 180 feet. The tallest geyser, the Waimangu Geyser, in New Zealand, erupted to a height in excess of 1,000 feet in 1909, but has not been active since it erupted violently in 1917. Currently the world's tallest active geyser is the "Giant", in Yellowstone National Park, Wyoming. It was discovered in 1870, and erupts at intervals varying from 7 days to 3 months, throwing a spire 200 feet high at the rate of 700,000 gallons per hour.

The Geysir (gusher) near Mt. Hekia in South Central Iceland, from which all others have been named, spurts on occasions, to 180 feet. The tallest geyser, the Waimangu Geyser, in New Zealand, erupted to a height in excess of 1,000 feet in 1909, but has not been active since it erupted violently in 1917. Currently the world's tallest active geyser is the "Giant", in Yellowstone National Park, Wyoming. It was discovered in 1870, and erupts at intervals varying from 7 days to 3 months, throwing a spire 200 feet high at the rate of 700,000 gallons per hour.

Looks like a lake

Isolation is a Spring flood

If your thing is being alone on a deserted island far away from the rat race of everyday society, you could easily find your wish in the Mississippi river. This particular island was once in the center of a farm somewhere north of Charleston.

The road to nowhere

This Spring, roads that usually go to farms or ferries sometimes lead to nowhere but water. This one near LaForge continues to disappear as flood waters from the Mississippi keep rising.

What's the law?

The case of the very bad sport

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When Hilda rejected Herbie's advances, Herbie took it like a sport. A bad one. Turning on his heels, he dashed into Hilda's kitchen and grabbed a butcher's knife. Hilda, in turn, retreated to her bedroom where she commandeered a gun. And when Herbie came after her with the butcher knife, with murder in his heart, Hilda concluded the evening's activities by shooting Herbie right between the eyes.

In due course, Hilda was charged with murder and she pleaded self- defense.

"Herbie had a split personality," she told the judge, "and he wanted to cleave me in two also. Naturally, I wasn't just going to stand there and let him do it."

"Under the law," retorted the prosecuting attorney, "a person who is under attack is required to make every effort to run away before killing his attacker. Since Hilda ran for a gun instead of for the street, her claim of self- defense is no defense. She's guilty as charged."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you acquit Hilda of murdering Herbie on the grounds of self- defense?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that there is a common law duty to "retreat to the wall" when one is attacked, but there is no such duty when one is assaulted in his own home. A person's home, noted the judge, is his ultimate sanctuary.

(Based upon a 1965 Florida Supreme Court Decision)

The mother lion guards her off spring cubs carefully and especially keeps away the father lion because he is inclined to kill the young.

Basketball score: Chaffee-21, Sikeston-19

50 years ago
March 15, 1923

The girls' basketball tournament played here last Friday and which far exceeded the hopes of its promoter, Supt. Roy V. Ellise, ended in a whirl- wing game Friday between Sikeston and Caruthersville. Caruthersville won by one point, the score standing 24 to 23.

A feature of the tournament was the selecting of an All- Southeast Missouri girls' team by the coaches of teams represented. Two girls were selected from Sikeston. They were Hilma Black, forward, and Lottie Dover, guard.

Edw. Hebbener of New Haven, and H.F. Meyer of Jefferson City, yesterday closed the deal whereby they bought from R.C. Matthews the lot at the northeast corner of Scott and Front streets on which they will erect a modern ice cream factory.

The local high school boys' basketball team lost to Chaffee in their first game at the Southeast Missouri High School tournament, in which Jackson was crowned champions last Friday. The score was Chaffee, 21 and Sikeston, 19.

Looks like a lake

Isolation is a Spring flood

If your thing is being alone on a deserted island far away from the rat race of everyday society, you could easily find your wish in the Mississippi river. This particular island was once in the center of a farm somewhere north of Charleston.

The road to nowhere

This Spring, roads that usually go to farms or ferries sometimes lead to nowhere but water. This one near LaForge continues to disappear as flood waters from the Mississippi keep rising.

What's the law?

The case of the very bad sport

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

When Hilda rejected Herbie's advances, Herbie took it like a sport. A bad one. Turning on his heels, he dashed into Hilda's kitchen and grabbed a butcher's knife. Hilda, in turn, retreated to her bedroom where she commandeered a gun. And when Herbie came after her with the butcher knife, with murder in his heart, Hilda concluded the evening's activities by shooting Herbie right between the eyes.

In due course, Hilda was charged with murder and she pleaded self- defense.

"Herbie had a split personality," she told the judge, "and he wanted to cleave me in two also. Naturally, I wasn't just going to stand there and let him do it."

"Under the law," retorted the prosecuting attorney, "a person who is under attack is required to make every effort to run away before killing his attacker. Since Hilda ran for a gun instead of for the street, her claim of self- defense is no defense. She's guilty as charged."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you acquit Hilda of murdering Herbie on the grounds of self- defense?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that there is a common law duty to "retreat to the wall" when one is attacked, but there is no such duty when one is assaulted in his own home. A person's home, noted the judge, is his ultimate sanctuary.

(Based upon a 1965 Florida Supreme Court Decision)

The mother lion guards her off spring cubs carefully and especially keeps away the father lion because he is inclined to kill the young.

Ex-POW tells of eye surgery

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Air Force Capt. Lynn Guenther of Eugene says his most anxious moments as a prisoner of war were when he underwent eye surgery without sedation.

The surgery came about two weeks after he was shot down while flying a reconnaissance mission over the Ho Chi Minh Trail in Laos on Dec. 26, 1971. Guenther said he was told later by American doctors the surgery probably had saved the eye.

"My eye operation was a type of acupuncture, except I felt a great deal of it. In fact, I felt the whole thing," Guenther said.

"I was not under sedation of any sort when they sewed up my eye. It was a little painful. In fact, I don't think I'd want to go through that much pain again in any way.

"I had a little Vietnamese guard that went with me and when I went in there he said, 'You will have much pain but you must try to suffer quietly and not scream too loud.'

"He says, 'Hold my hand and squeeze when it becomes too painful,' and his hand was white by the time I finished.

"They inserted a needle in the top of my eye and back into the base of the skull to hold the eye still.

"They put in — I believe, if I counted right — seven stitches in my eye and then they also injected some fluid into it.

"The whole operation took, I guess, about 20 minutes but I was damn glad when it was over ... It was an experience I wouldn't want to go over again."

Senate approves budget bill

JEFFERSON CITY, (AP) — The Missouri Senate approved, 25-1, a "zero base budgeting bill" and sent it to the governor for his signature.

The bill, first to hit the governor's desk in the legislative session, which began Jan. 3, was opposed only by Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood. He opposed wording in two House amendments.

The bill requires all state agencies and departments to submit detail budgets to the legislature from a "zero base". The departments would have to justify every expenditure over $50, instead of the present system of asking for increases and costs based on existing programs.

The bill passed the House Wednesday after two hours of debate on a substitute bill introduced by Rep. Robert O. Snyder, R-Kirkwood.

Snyder's bill would not have required state departments to give an itemized estimate of expected cost, which the Senate bill, originally introduced by Sen. Donald Manford, D-Kansas City, does require.

His bill also would have raised from $50 to $200 the amount over which all expenditures would have to be itemized.

The House amended the bill to send copies of the detailed budgets only to the chairmen of the appropriation committees of both Houses and selected state officials. Snyder, and other House members, said if the detailed budgets were carried in the governor's budget request, the report would be too large and detailed.

If Gov. Christopher S. Bond signs the bill, it will become the first piece of legislation to be enacted by the 77th General Assembly.

Bond has not endorsed the bill. He favors a budgeting process based on performance of state agencies.

Money for state agencies must be approved by the legislature after appropriations hearings by House and Senate committees which examine budget recommendations made by the governor.

The budgeting bill is the first bill this session to be approved by both houses.

In committee action Wednesday night, the House Welfare Committee heard testimony on a six-bill package to change welfare laws to bring them in line with a new federal program known as Supplementary Security Income (SSI).

Any more, the difference between a white collar worker and a blue collar worker is simply a matter of shirt preference.

Senate approves budget bill

The bill, first to hit the governor's desk in the legislative session, which began Jan. 3, was opposed only by Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-Brentwood. He opposed wording in two House amendments.

The bill requires all state agencies and departments to submit detail budgets to the legislature from a "zero base". The departments would have to justify every expenditure over $50, instead of the present system of asking for increases and costs based on existing programs.

The bill passed the House Wednesday after two hours of debate on a substitute bill introduced by Rep. Robert O. Snyder, R-Kirkwood.

Snyder's bill would not have required state departments to give an itemized estimate of expected cost, which the Senate bill, originally introduced by Sen. Donald Manford, D-Kansas City, does require.

His bill also would have raised from $50 to $200 the amount over which all expenditures would have to be itemized.

The House amended the bill to send copies of the detailed budgets only to the chairmen of the appropriation committees of both Houses and selected state officials. Snyder, and other House members, said if the detailed budgets were carried in the governor's budget request, the report would be too large and detailed.

If Gov. Christopher S. Bond signs the bill, it will become the first piece of legislation to be enacted by the 77th General Assembly.

Bond has not endorsed the bill. He favors a budgeting process based on performance of state agencies.

Money for state agencies must be approved by the legislature after appropriations hearings by House and Senate committees which examine budget recommendations made by the governor.

The budgeting bill is the first bill this session to be approved by both houses.

In committee action Wednesday night, the House Welfare Committee heard testimony on a six-bill package to change welfare laws to bring them in line with a new federal program known as Supplementary Security Income (SSI).
